ABOUT DELTA KAYAKS

WHO WE ARE

At Delta, we only build thermoformed kayaks because we believe in the technology, our kayak designs, and our state-of-the-art manufacturing techniques. We're proud to craft our kayaks in coastal British Columbia and feel there's no better place to prove our designs. And we make kayaks for everyone, from beginner to expert, because we believe every paddler deserves a well-crafted kayak that suits their own style and ability. Our focus has always been to build the world's finest thermoformed kayaks right here in North America, and we think our quality kayaks speak to the value of doing one thing, and doing it well. That's who we are.

— THAT'S THE DELTA DIFFERENCE.

COMMITMENT TO THE ENVIRONMENT

As kayakers and outdoor enthusiasts, we take environmental stewardship seriously. Every Delta Kayak is made from materials and construction methods that tread lightly on our planet. The materials we use are safe to manufacture and are completely recyclable. 100% of our scrap material is collected and repurposed so there is no waste.

ADVANCED THERMOFORM CONSTRUCTION

SOLARKOTE
EXTERIOR LAYER

ABS BASE LAYER

Our skilled workers carefully craft every Delta kayak using a proprietary blend of thermoplastic materials. An ABS base layer (1) provides superior impact-resistance and rigidity, while the Solarkote exterior surface (2) contributes outstanding abrasion and UV resistance for a smooth, bright finish and vibrant, lasting colours. Our kayaks have higher impact strength than composite fibreglass boats and hold their shape better than polyethylene kayaks. The first thing you're likely to notice, however, is their weight. Thanks to our advanced thermoform construction, Delta kayaks are not just tough and good-looking — they're also among the lightest on the market.
